

Title: Online Gender Sensitization Programme

Date: 29.06.21

Mode: Online

Participants: 31

Objective: To raise awareness about consent and sexual harassment so that students can resist harassment on the college campus and also in their personal lives.

Context: Sexual harassment is a huge problem that plagues not only women, but also men though to a much smaller extent. However, most of the students, particularly those coming from the less privileged backgrounds have little idea about consent and hence cannot even identify those forms of harassment which are not so obvious. In this context making them aware of the nitty gritty of consent and harassment is essential.

Practice: The ICC and Gender Sensitization Committee in collaboration with the English Department of the college organized an online workshop for students on 29th June, 2021. The workshop, conducted by Debapratim Chakraborty, Assistant Professor of the English Department, focused primarily on the issue of consent and aimed at making the students understand the finer nuances of the topic particularly in the context of romantic/sexual relationships. Various aspects of the topic were introduced by presenting imaginary scenarios to which the students were asked to respond according to their own understanding of consent. The instructor then amended their responses as necessary and further illustrated the points by showing film clips, popular memes, animations etc and narrating anecdotes which would be easily relatable to the students.

Evidence of success: The programme was attended by 31 students who participated enthusiastically bringing their own views and personal experiences into the discussion. The response recorded by them in the feedback form provided by the organizers bear testimony to how much they felt benefitted from the programme.

Problems Encountered: Since the programme was held online quite a few students could not attend it because of connectivity issues or had to face interruptions.
